

GAGOSIAN GALLERY

theguardian

The 10 best... things to do this week

From Jenny Saville to Sci-Fi London, your at-a-glance culture guide to the next seven days

One Out Of Two (Symposium), 2016, by Jenny Saville (detail). Photograph: Mike Bruce

Exhibitions

Jenny Saville

Mottled, contorted, often florid, Jenny Saville's portraits have a distinct ability to unsettle. The former Young British Artist and Saatchi affiliate paints portraits of women that challenge preconceptions (her work on a Manic Street Preachers album cover was famously censored). Often compared to Lucian Freud, there is something even less sentimental about Saville's studies. A new exhibition at the Gagosian showcases a series of new nudes that also see her pondering the technical challenges of figurative art.